Tutoring Experience

I've been tutoring history for 14 years, helping students across IB, A-Level, and IGCSE curricula. My teaching focuses on understanding historical developments and critically analysing primary and secondary sources. I've guided students in writing exceptional essays and achieving top marks in their exams, especially for IB History HL and SL.

Over the years, I've worked with international schools and provided private tutoring to students from diverse cultural and academic backgrounds. My lessons often include exploring historical perspectives and fostering critical thinking. Whether studying medieval Europe or modern global conflicts, my goal is to ensure students leave with a comprehensive understanding of history.

In addition to curriculum-based teaching, I assist with university entrance essays and personal statements, particularly for students applying to competitive history and political science programmes. My students have gone on to study at leading universities, reflecting the quality of support I offer throughout their academic journey.
