Tutoring Experience

I've been tutoring English for 17 years, working with students from diverse backgrounds and educational systems. I've guided students through the IB, A-Level, and IGCSE curriculums, helping them develop their analytical skills and excel in their exams. My focus is on literature, critical writing, and linguistics.

In addition to school-level curricula, I've supported university students in refining their skills in advanced topics such as syntax, grammar, and phonetics. My approach has helped students enhance their writing and comprehension, leading them to success in both academic and professional environments.
